Work Experience in relation to the Key outputs for this role

Portfolio Strategy:

Whilst working at the Albert Luthuli Leadership Institute at the University of Pretoria, I was responsible for creating a group of young leaders, to participate in strategizing for University wide civic engagement. The mission was to design a university wide module that would allow every single student to participate in some sort of civic duty be it community service or volunteering. The reason for this Capstone module was to increase youth participation in voting (voter role). The whole purpose of university is to equip young people for the future, and if they are only consuming academic information then they fail to realise their civic duty and responsibility as voters, and as agents of change. As the lead of that strategy I designed the modules based on 4 core deliverables Leadership, Sustainability, Ethics and Citizenship. Although the idea was designed and presented to deans of faculties and some members of UP management, it was never implemented because of the sheer magnitude of a university wide module and the resources it required. But the strategy remains the same and can still be used to increase student leadership engagement. In order to keep up with emerging needs and current trends of students, it was designed to be used as a gamified app where students would be able to earn points for completing various tasks and rewards for having the highest points at the end of each quarter. Instead of a lecture format.

As the Head of Communication I was responsible for developing the first ever communications strategy for the ALLI, as they had not had a communications lead before me. This entailed researching the current status quo, from company goal, to company message, branding, target market, reach and reintroducing the ALLI to the public eye. This strategy improved brand engagement by 50%. I completed my Masters degree in Strategic Business Management and thus strategy is a core part of my expertise. Finally in my roles as President of the Golden Key Honours society, and even running for the SRC, I was able to see first hand from a student's perspective what leadership looked like. Its much easier to solve a problem when you have experienced it yourself, thus I have first hand knowledge of student leadership, its potential, its

I am writing to express my enthusiasm for the [Position Name] role at [Company's Name], as advertised on [where you found the job posting]. With a robust background in strategic communications, marketing, and leadership, coupled with my international experience and academic achievements, I am confident in my ability to contribute effectively to your team.

Currently, I serve as the Head of Marketing and Communication at the Albert Luthuli Leadership Institute in Pretoria, South Africa. In this role, I have successfully created and executed a multi-channel communication strategy that increased brand engagement by 50%. My responsibilities also included managing media relations and securing coverage in top-tier media outlets such as Newzroom Africa, SABC, and an international docuseries. My proactive approach to stakeholder engagement, including traveling to the US, Germany, and Saudi Arabia, has been critical in maintaining our brand reputation and strengthening partnerships.

Simultaneously, I hold the position of Strategic Communications Lead at the South Africa SDG Hub, where I have developed and implemented sustainable communication strategies. I have been instrumental in creating and scheduling content for our website and social media platforms, which has significantly enhanced our visibility and stakeholder interest.

From 2022 to 2023, I served as the Communication Manager for the Sustainable Development Solutions Network. Here, I crafted a new strategic business message, established a comprehensive three-year growth plan and communications strategy, and organized sustainable business partnerships with various organizations to promote sustainability and the sustainable development goals.

As the CEO and Founder of Elevate Africa Academy, I leverage my qualifications as a public speaking and voice-over trainer to empower students, young professionals, and corporate staff across Africa. My training focuses on confidence, body language, pronunciation, and audience analysis, impacting numerous individuals positively. Additionally, I provide strategic communication skills training to companies based on my master's research findings.

My dedication to communication and leadership is further reflected in my achievements and additional roles. I have had the honor of being a TEDx speaker, with my talk on "The Dangers of Western Feminism to African Women" garnering 350,000 views. My leadership roles include serving as the student representative for the Mastercard Foundation Scholars Program and as President and Academic Student Advisor for the Golden Key International Honour Society at the University of Pretoria. I have also represented Africa at the Global Young Leaders Conference at the UN Headquarters, where I was elected as Chairperson of Youth UN.

My accolades, such as being named one of the Top 10 Outstanding Young Persons in the World by Junior Chambers International in 2022 and being recognized among the Top 100 employable graduates in South Africa by GradStar in 2019 and 2020, are testaments to my dedication and capability.

With a distinction for my master's research on the 'Role of effective communication in strategy implementation' and my rich professional background, I am excited about the opportunity to bring my skills and experiences to [Company's Name]. I am eager to contribute to your esteemed organization and help achieve your strategic goals.
