To Whom it May Concern,

Zingisa Motloba has been an associate of Cohesion Collective for the past four and a half years. In this time, we have utilized her services as part of our Inclusion Assessment projects and in consulting for our other client work.

These projects enter organisations and seek to understand and identify barriers to equality, diversity and inclusion that detract from the employee experience and erode organisational culture. We seek to understand the points of employee experience where an organisation is not living its values as they relate to inclusion and diversity.

Zingisa has been involved in 7 such projects and has fulfilled the following functions and roles:

- Lead and co-facilitation in focus groups and one-on-one interviews
- Organisation data analysis (employment equity reports, company information, engagement surveys)
- Analysis of organisational data gathering above to synthesis insights
- Drafting of client's Inclusion Assessment report
- Presentation of findings to client, along with recommendations
- Consulting and advisory services

Outside of the above, Zingisa has also managed client relationships, ran informal feedback sessions, and conducted research to support research findings.

Zingisa has been an incredible asset to the CoCo team and has enriched the rollouts of our projects with a calm, experience-driven approach. Zingisa is trustworthy, present, responsive, open, warm, caring, considered and is always willing to support the successful delivery of a project. A huge asset!
